This case has been referred to the Court's mediation program. The current deadline for mediation is November 6, 2006. Both parties have propounded written discovery. After that initial round of discovery is complete, defendant intends to file a motion for summary judgment. Due to the substantial damages in this case and defendant's belief that there is a significant question regarding liability, the parties agree that mediation is not likely to be successful until after defendant's motion can be heard.
